Herbert Lewin
Country: Germany

In the mid-1990s, when Herbert Lewin turned 75, he slowly began to lose his eyesight. Today, at age 90, he is legally blind, but just as in his teenage years, listening to music is still one of his greatest pleasures.

While sharing with us family photos he can barely see, Mr. Lewin tells us of his childhood in the East Prussian town of Osterode (Which today belongs to Poland). He speaks of his best friend who, despite being forced to join the Hitler Youth, never let him down. Herbert Lewin then takes us on his adventurous journey of an illegal immigration to Palestine, where he fell in love in Tel Aviv, then after the war, returned to Europe, ...
