The interviewee and his family

Full name

Milena Prochazkova (nee Kosinerova)

Where and when were you born?

Prague, 3rd September 1930

Where else did you live?

Your educational level?

High school, Prague

What sort of work do/did you do?

For about two years I worked in a lab in the State Health Institute, but back then they discovered that I've got a serious heart defect, and I could no longer work in the virology department. So then for years I worked for Druteva [Druteva Praha is a manufacturing collective with long years of tradition. It was founded on 1st January 1950 as the first collective to permit work placement of persons with various types of health problems.] and then for the National Gallery. I currently work for the Terezin Initiative, for at least 12, 13 years now.

How religious was your parents' home? How were you raised?

My parents didn't practice anything at all. At home we celebrated Christmas and New Year. Before the war broke out, I didn't know at all that I was Jewish.

What is your mother tongue?

Czech

What other languages do you speak?

English, German

Where were you during the Holocaust?

Ghetto: Terezin, 1943-1945

What did you do after the Holocaust?

After high school I took this lab technician's course. For about two years I worked in a lab in the State Health Institute, but back then they discovered that I've got a serious heart defect, and I could no longer work in the virology department. So then for years I worked for Druteva and then for the National Gallery. I currently work for the Terezin Initiative, for at least 12, 13 years now.

My father was an expert in heavy structural engineering, so they immediately hired him to work for Chemoprojekt [Chemoprojekt, a.s. is a Czech project, engineering and supply company, which is active in the chemical industry since 1950, as a leading supplier in this area]. He then worked there his whole life as a chief engineer. In Slovakia he built all of Duslo [DUSLO, a.s. is after SLOVNAFT the second largest chemical company in Slovakia. The government of the CSR on 8th April 1958 began the initial project of its construction. Currently DUSLO a.s. exports its products to more than 40 countries worldwide].

How religious was he?

My father wasn't particularly religiously inclined, he didn't practice anything at all.

If he survived, what did he do after?

My father began working in his little company that he'd already had before the war. There were three of them, two took care of finding business, and Dad just calculated and calculated. He lost his business sometime in 1951, I think. The Communists took it away from them. But he didn't make some sort of tragedy out of it, he took it as a matter of fact. Because he had such trials and tribulations behind him, that some little company couldn't upset him. He had no problem finding work, he was an expert in heavy structural engineering, so they immediately hired him to work for Chemoprojekt. He then worked there his whole life as a chief engineer. In Slovakia he built all of Duslo.

Where and when did he die?

Concentration camp: Treblinka (today Poland), 1942

What sort of education did he have?

Probably agricultural high school

What sort of work did he do?

My grandpa had a huge farming estate. That estate was really very large, because twelve families lived there. They worked for them in the fields and gardens, basically whatever was needed. And got a salary for that. They had horses, cows, poultry, everything.

How religious was he?

As far as religion goes, my grandfather on my mother's side regularly attended synagogue. At least once a month. But mainly he always observed the New Year [Rosh Hashanah] and the Long Day [Yom Kippur]. He was brought up that way at home, likely by his father, because his mother didn't observe anything. You know, what could you observe in those villages. Both his parents were Jews, just like my grandma's, they were generations of Jewish families. But they were village families. I suspect that they tried to live in such a way so as not stick out too much from the other villagers. Some sort of attending synagogue was of course not possible in a village in those days. Nevertheless neither did my grandfather live in some sort of Orthodox fashion, he observed only the High Holidays, didn't eat kosher and on the contrary, spent Christmas with us children. Neither did he try to exert some sort of religious influence or pressure. No one talked about it in that family. He lived his own internal life, but without us.
